SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATOR. HOLLIDAYSBURG, Jan. 31 .- The Blair

County Republican Committee met here at the court house this morning, and had a stormy session. The committee decided that the next primary elections should be held Saturday, June 13, and the county convention be held on Tuesday, June 16, at Tyrone.

Everything moved smoothly until an Aloona delegate threw a bomb into the meeting in the shape of a resolution, condemning ing in the shape of a resolution, condemning Blair county's Senator, John A. Lemon, and Representatives A. P. McDonald and A. A. Slayer for voting for the re-election of Donald Cameron as United States Senator for Pennsylvania. This move at once caused confusion, many hot speeches were made, and the delegates called each other hard names. As soon as the Chairman could restore order and secure the attention of the committee, a vote was taken, and the resolution of condemnation was carried by a vote of 38 to 11. This action will not trouble the Representatives very much,

FORCED TO MAKE A CONFESSION. She Secretly Married a Living Skeleton, but Got Tired of Him.

SAD FAILURE AS A HYPNOTIC FREAK

PRECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, Jan. 31 .- A very pretty woman billed as Mile. Charcot, niece of the amous Dr. Charcot, of Paris, and giving sypnotic exhibitions in a dime museum on Courteenth street, turns out not to be Mile. Charcot, but by her own confession is Eva Powers, formerly of Corry, Pa., where she was secretly married to the living skeleton of Forepaugh's Circus. Her story is a curious one.

A few days ago the newspapers of New York received nicely written invitations to send representatives to a private hypnotic exhibition to be given by Mile. Charcot, niece of Dr. Charcot, of Paris, for the purpose of demonstrating to the medical pro-fession her wonderful power as a who was supposed to have perished of cold and was covered up by the snow, has not yet been hypnotist. The invitations stated that she had come to this country for the purpose of explaining the advantages and use of magnetic power in the treatment of disease. The reporters saw nothing remarkable to describe in her hypnotic exhibition, but Mile. Charcot was described as a woman of rare personal charms, clever and ex-ceptionally well read in her science. Other hypnotists had, however, done all and more than she had done, so there was nothing unusual in her performance.

Admits the Deception

She gave one exhibition and finally it was suspected that she was not Mile. Charcot, and on being cross-examined by one who thought he knew her, admits that she is, or was, Eva Powers, of Corry, Pa., and is now the wife of Al Reeves, a well-known banjo player. She is billed at the Museum as "The Phenomenal Lady Hypnotist, Mile. Charcot, Who Conquers All." This is the story of her life as she has herself given it to the reporters: In 1880 Mile. Charcot, or Mrs. Al Reeves, or Mrs. Feralto, nee Eva Powers, was a 17year-old girl living in Corry, Pa. That summer Forepaugh's circus came through the town. With it was traveling Eugene Feralto, one of the best known living skeletons. It was love at first sight in their case. They were married that same afternoon. At night she returned home. She concealed her marriage from her family. Her husband continued traveling with the show. That fall, after the circus disbanded, she joined her husband in New York. They spent the winter together, and when he joined the show in the spring she went with

Posed as a Beauty. She did not exhibit that year, but in 1882 she succeeded Louise Montague as the $10,-000 beauty, and was again on the road with Forepaugh. During the circus season of 1883 and 1884 she and her husband were with the Barret show. She had learned magic and performed as chief attraction in the side show and was also on occasion a Circassian beauty. It was after one of these seasons that she filled a short engagement at a mus-eum, No. 210 Bowery, doing magic. From there she went up to a museum at Bristol, and finally ended up at her husband's home in Providence.

Just out of the city is Crescent Park. There in 1885 and 1886 she and her hus ran a small circus and museum. Feralto had all this time been growing more and more dissipated. She finally took her company "on the road" and left the drunken freak to take care of himself. Later she obtained a divorce from him.

In 1887 she had settled down at Lawrunning a little variety theater, which was eminently successful. It was there that she met her present husband, Al Reeves, who is one of the best-known banjo players in the country. They were married two years ago last summer. She sold out her theater and invested the pro-

Friday was central yesterday in Northern Texas, and the storm from the Northwest was central in Southern Minnesota. The two formed a trough of low barometer, extending the entire length of the Mississippi Valley. Heavy rain was falling from Texas north to Lake Michigan, in the Ohio and Tennessee Valleys, and east to the Atlantic. Snow fell in the region of Lakes Superior and Huron and west as far as Manitoba. A cold wave appeared over Montana, the Dakotas and Minnesota, where the temperature fell 40° or more in 24 hours. In Northern Minnesota a fall to 200 below zero occurred. A high pressure area appeared in Manitaba, which will cause the storm in the lake region to move rapidly eastward, followed by a cold wave.

A $12,500 ST. BEKNARD DOG COMING.

Clearwater and Kuntarch Wind Up Their Pool Match-General Sporting News.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 31 .- Johnnie Ward, the recognized leader in the Brotherhood revolt, and one of the best captains in America, may yet be found in the Cincinnati baseball team. President Albert L. Johnson has not vet given up hopes of engaging him, and has set about securing talent for the Cincinnati club as though all the internal dissensions concerning the club's ownership had been settled. His action can be taken as a line that indicates that he and Mr. Brush, of Indianapolis, have arrived at an amicable arrangement. Of course, there is a possibility that the deal may yet fall through, but President Johnson's action yesterday is a good pointer. About noon yesterday President Johnson sent the following telegram to the captain of last year's Brooklyn Brotherhood team:

John Ward, New York: Have you completed negotiations with the Brooklyn League team? If not I will give you more money to play in Cincinnati than you were ever paid before.

A. L. Johnson, Brown Farmer Cincinnati that You were in the lord of the train for home. It was short, but gave some encouragement for the belief that Ward may yet be found with the Queen City League Cinh. It read:

A. L. Johnson, Burnet House, Cincinnati, O.: Have not yet signed with Brooklyn club. Certain promises and conditions must be fulfilled, or I will not jobs it. John M. Ward. President Johnson was highly clated over the reply, and before leaving the city sent the fol-lowing: John Ward, New York: Your influence and money here will exceed anything they can offer. The city is wild to have you come. Waft till you get letter.

A. L. Johnson.

These telegrams will doubtless give Cincinnations hope that the local club is about to acquire what it has always needed. There is one obstacle in the way, however. It is known that the New York management want Ward to play m Brooklyn, and it is possible they may remse to release him to any other club. Anyhow, Messrs, Johnson and Brush have shown considerable automorphic little. erable enterprise in trying to secure him. It is a step in the right direction, and will please the President O'Nelll Impresses the Clevelanders With His Energetic Qualities-A Deal That May Be Made-Players for the Forest City.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. CLEVELAND, Jan. Sl .- J. Palmer O'Neill is the most persistent and indefatigable hustler that ever walked into Cleveland baseball circles in behalf of a Pittsburg club. If there is anything that he left undone while in Cleve-land to help his own team it is hard to see what it was. He was leaning upon the railing in the news stand of the Weddell House the other evening, and in reply to the query of a friend, "I am out for husiness I am not going to return home until I get just what I want, or find that I cannot get it at all. I mean to have the best and strongest club that ever represented Pittsburg, if I have to sign the last man the day before the championship race begins."

O'Neill came to Cleveland simply to get Tebeau, Had he made a proposition to exchange Miller for Tebeau the deal would have been made as quickly as the papers could have been drawn up and the players consulted. He wonlan't do that, but proposed another scheme whereby for Pittsburg's aid in other channels

Cleveland was to part with Tebeau providing Cleveland got its share in the shift. If that plan goes through—and there is much proba-bility of it—both Clevelang and Pittsburg will be mutually benefited and both will start in the be mutually benefited and both will start in the pennant race with teams considerably stronger than ever represented either city before.

If Mack's case comes up before the National Board and personal contracts are introduced as evidence that Mack belongs to any particular organization, it is said that there is a personal contract now in the possession of ex-Secretary Brunell, of the Players' League, between Mack and Hanlon which antedates all others. From the best information obtainable at looks as though Pittsburg's claim on Mack was stronger than that of any other club and stronger than its claim on Bierbauer. The strict and literal constituction of baseball law would give Bierbauer to Pittsburg at that.

all Westerners except one, and the chances at the present writing are good to get them. The Cleveland club has more good men to begin the present season with than it ever had.

The unanimity with which the other League clubs indorsed the stand of President Robison upon the sales system was not only gratifying to that official, but evidence that the League is much more willing to rid itself of a plan that has proven a costly experiment, than the players generally thought. The publication of the letters was followed by a queer protest from a well-known player, who, while in conversation with THE DISPATCH correspondent, said that with THE DISPATCH correspondent, said that the League magnates were now going to abolish the sales system and prevent the players from He characterized that as in harmon with the usual grinding policy of the Leagu A year ago this time the same player was making a great hue and cry about being sold like a slave. CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 31.-Since the famous $20,000 offer to Al Johnson he has grown cautious, and all propositions over the Cincin-nati club between himself and John T. Brush, the League holder of the franchise there, will be on paper. Johnson came from New York last week and Monday sent the following notice CLEVELAND. O., Jan. 28. John T. Brush, Esq., Indianapolis, Ind.:

DEAR SIR-I have been in consultation with my lawyers ever since my return, and after a very careful examination of the contract signed by the eight Players' League clubs, and signed by the eight Players' League clubs, and also the constitution of that organization, together with the minutes taken of every meeting, they now advise me to state to you that I, as the President of the Cincinnan Baseball Club, whose affairs have been entrusted to my care by the other purchasers of that organization, am ready to receive any proposition made by either yourself, as a representative of the National League, or any one else representing that organization, which proposition I will be compelled to first submit to the other purchasers for their approval before I can give you any decided answer. My object in pursaing this course is that I may in its way forfeit my claim against the different clubs and their individual stockholders, whom I expect to have to settle with me.

A. L. Johnson. L. A. Russell, Johnson's Cleveland lawyer, says he cannot be shaken in his Circinnati position, and that any damage done the property in his hands, for which the Players' League people paid Aaron Sterne and Harry Sterne 20,000 in cash and $20,000 in negotiable notes, will be at Brush's charge. Of course nothing can stop Brush hiring other grounds and another team for the city if he chooses, but he cannot play against National League teams there, because Johnson holds the National League franchise and will later along enjoin the National League franchise and will later along enjoin the National League from making up a schedule which doesn't include his club.

ference that would raise a mighty cyclone in the baseball world. Not even a breeze is perceptible. No formal conference was held, and no official action of any kind has been taken. Thurman and Prince have not yet appeared. Reach came to look after a real estate deal. He left town to-night, Brush reported progress in the Cinclinati situation, and then left for Indianapolis Thursday night. Robinson will return to Cleveland to-morrow, and O'Neill departs for Pittsburg Monday.

J. Palmer O'Neill was the happiest man in the narty. From Nick Young came a fat envelope. From the recesses of this, the Pittsburger drew the contract of Lewis Bierbauer, the great second baseman. The instrument was duly approved by the President of the League. O'Neill also wasted some more cloquence on Spaiding and Anson in trying to coax them into releasing Van flaltren and Gumbert.

Sued Them Again. There are still echoes of last year's baseball failure. Yesterday the representatives of the Denuy estate levied on the grounds of last year's local National League club for $3,400 of years local National League club for $3,400 of unpaid rent. It would be interesting to know where anything tikely to be worth half of the amount claimed can be found in Recreation Park. The policemen who were on duty at Recreation Park have not yet been paid, and those who officiated at Exposition Park were paid Friday.

Thought It Was Right. The announcement made in THE DISPATCH of yesterday regarding the refusal of the A. A. U. to reinstate Tener and Gray was the theme of conversation in sporting circles. The general opinion was to the effect that the A. A. U. would do right to make the reinstatements. But one local Amateur pointed out that why application for the reinstatements had been made was because such reinstatements had been made in the next.

Pat Farrell Still Wanting to Hear From the Aspiring Champions. It is extremely curious that amid all the aspirants for fame as middleweight pugilists, and amid all the talk about this man and that man who wants to fight for the middleweight chamaccept the challenge of Pat Farrell, of this city. His challenge is to the effect that he will fight any man in America at 158 pounds, Fitzsimmons preferred, for a purse or a stake, or both. To show that Farrell is not looking for fame and money that he cannot earn, he will fight Fitzsimmons for any purse that may be offered by any club and will bet $5,000 on the

But if Fitzsimmons declines to fight, Farrell is anxious to hear from the other alleged champions. Where is Reddy Gallagher, and where is Carroll, of Brooklyn: Kessler, La Blanche, Young Mitchell, and others? Farrell will fight any one of them for anything at all. THE EAST ENDERS WON. They Beat the Allegheny Athletics in Well-Played Football Game. Yesterday afternoon the East End and Allegheny Athletic Association football clubs met for the first time on the former's ground, East Liberty ball park. Rain felt all day and the ground was consequently in a soggy condition and the ball greasy. The game, notwithstand-ing, was hard-and-fast throughout, and both sides played a good game, but the East Enders had the best of it and won to the tune of 4 to 1. The referee, Ernest Quion, then took the gun in charge, and on examination found that it contained about 1½ ounces of shot. He then counted a "dead birn" for Horsfield, but the latter objected, refusing to continue the contest unless the decision was reversed. This was not done, and the match was awarded to Brookes. There is a dispute regarding the matter. Brookes offers to shoot Horsfield under any printed rules, and will be at this office any time to make a match. Where Is Mr. Lutbegg? The Coke Region Operators Will Meet the Miners in Conference. ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. I SCOTTDALE, Jan 31.—There is still a chance for a settlement of the wage difficulties in the coke region before the expiration of the pres ent agreement February 10. The invitation of the Scale Committee of the United Mine Workers, sent to operators Tuesday, asking them for a conference to bring about a settlement of the pending difficulties on or before February 2, was favorably received. Secretary Parker yesterday received notice from President John P. Brennen and Secretary from President John P. Brennen and Secretary McFadyew, of the operators committee, stating that they will meet the miners representatives here Monday. All she coke operators in the region will be present, and the miners will be represented by Messrs. Wise, Parker, Spence, Barrett, Kergan, De Haven and McBride. What concessions both sides will make to reach a settlement cannot be foretold. The miners still state that they will not waive their weigh scale and eight hour demands. The operators are reticent on the subject of a new agreement, but are seemingly in a conciliatory mood.

A FIGHT WITH A WILDCAT. everal Dogs Bite the Dust Before the Beast

"SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATOR. CHARLESTON, W.VA., Jan. 31 .- John Comer. this place, returned home yesterday from a successful hunt after what has been pro-nounced the largest wildcat ever killed in the Kanawha valley. The cat was started by the dogs in a rocky forest, and after running a short distance the cat turned on the hounds and gave battle. The cat split the dogs' ears and gave battle. The cat split the dogs' ears and sides at every stroke. The cat was turned into a crevice in the rocks, where but one dog could get at her at a time, and in a short time she had beaten every dog off the field.

Mr. Comer had fired several shots at the cat, but with little effect, and seeing his dogs dying from loss of blood, he went home after a large Scotch terrier. The cat was still in the crevice and the terrier and she had a terrific battle, the cat fighting for life and cleaving the dog's hide from muzzle to stern. Finally the dog dragged the brave cat from the cleft, and it was soon killed by Mr. Comer. The terrier and others of the hounds will die.
